

iQuHACK

All times EST

Friday, January 29, 2021
5:00-6:30pm	Gate-based division: Technical talk from the IonQ team	Learn how IonQ's trapped ion quantum hardware works and how to interface with it.	Zoom
5:00-6:30pm	Annealing division: Technical talk from the D-Wave team	Learn how D-Wave's quantum annealing hardware works and how to interface with it.	Zoom
6:30-7:30pm	Keynote talk	Professor Will Oliver will give an overview of quantum computing.	Zoom

Saturday, January 30, 2021
9:00-9:15am	Check-in + final team matching	If you haven't yet, configure your programming environment and set up Github. Remaining individuals will be matched with teams.	Zoom
9:15-9:45am	Opening remarks	Professor Isaac Chuang will kick off iQuHACK!	Zoom
9:45-10:00am	Challenge reveal	Our sponsors will reveal the challenges they have set for this year's event	Zoom
10:00am	Hacking begins!	You and your team can start working on your projects. Coaches will be available to answer questions via Slack.	Zoom/Slack
4:00pm-6:00pm	Drop-in hours (optional)	Drop in to Zoom breakout rooms with coaches, judges, and company reps!	Zoom
6:00pm	Hacking ends for the day	The formal Zoom room will close and coaches/staff won't be available until Sunday morning. You're free to continue working as long as you'd like.	Zoom/Slack

Sunday, January 31, 2021

9:00am	Hacking continues	Continue working with your team - the formal Zoom room will reopen and coaches/staff will be available to answer questions.	Zoom/Slack
12:00pm	Hacking ends	At this time, your work must conclude, your git repos be pushed, and your presentations be ready to go. Details to be provided at the event.	Zoom/Slack
12:30-1:30pm	Lightning talks from our sponsors	Hear from our sponsors about their work in quantum information.	Zoom
1:30-3:30pm	Judging	Judging details to be announced at the event.	Zoom
3:30-4:30pm	Lightning talks from our sponsors	Hear from our sponsors about their work in quantum information.	Zoom
4:30-5:30pm	Networking	Meet the sponsors and judges, and enjoy an opportunity to network with fellow participants!	Zoom
5:30-6:30pm	Awards	Prizes will be awarded!	Zoom